

Anne Messel

The only daughter of Leonard and Maud, Anne lived at Nymans with her brothers Linley and Oliver. After her father Leonard's death in 1953 Anne took over the house and gardens, and moved here permanently as a widow in 1979. She lived in the house until she died in 1992 and the rooms are shown as she used them.

The House at Nymans

Welcome to the home of the Messel family. Once a grand Regency style house it was transformed in the 1920s into a dramatic Medieval Manor House, only to be partially burnt down in February 1947. Undeterred the Messels created the current arrangement of rooms out of the remains. They are shown as Anne, Countess of Rosse, the last of the Messels to live in the house, used them.

7. Book Room

There has always been a Book Room as well as a Library at Nymans. The surround of the TV set was created by Anne's brother Oliver.

Oliver is celebrated as one of the greatest British stage designers in history and some of his paintings are displayed at Nymans.

Leonard and Maud Messel

Anne's father, Leonard, inherited Nymans in 1915 and set about remodelling the house in a medieval style. His wife Maud visited the West Country looking at examples of medieval architecture to include in the design.

Ludwig Messel

Anne's German grandfather, Ludwig, bought Nymans as a country retreat for his family from their busy life in London.

The photos of the family displayed on the piano are on loan from Anne's son, Lord Snowdon, and include some of his own work.

6. Gun Room and Passage

This room used to house guns and armour which gave it its name. The phonebooks hint at Anne's enduring connection to Ireland developed through her marriage to the Earl of Rosse.

The passage through the Gun Room door leads to the Motor Door where cars would drop off visitors. The umbrellas and walking sticks were owned by all 3 generations of Messels who lived at Nymans.

4. Old Staircase Hall

Before the fire the main staircase stood here. Above, a galleried landing encircled it, leading to the bedrooms. The tiled section of floor shows the footprint of the staircase.

3. Housekeeping Room

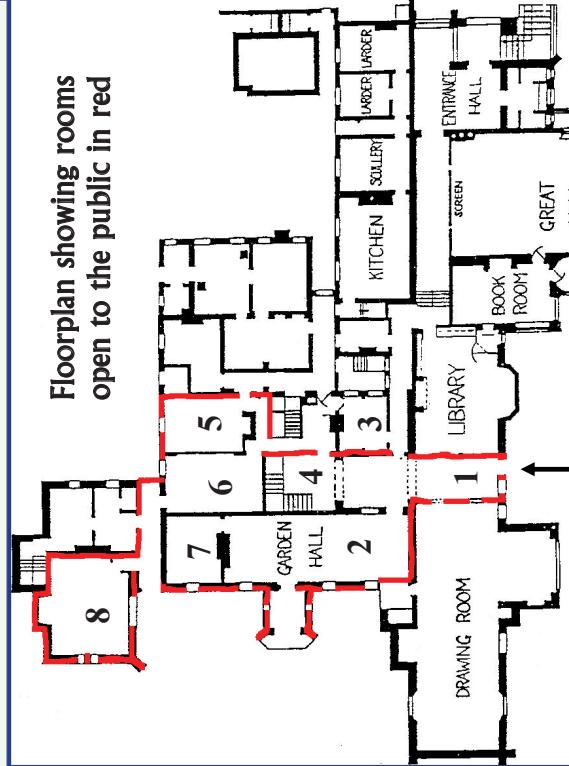

This room explores the staff who cared for the house at Nymans.

8. Library

Anne used this room as a study, writing at the desk with a view to her private forecourt. The Library was Anne's favourite room at Nymans and directly below her bedroom. The breakfast bookcases are filled with books on gardening, collected after the original library and its more significant contents were lost in the fire.

Floorplan showing rooms open to the public in red

Entrance

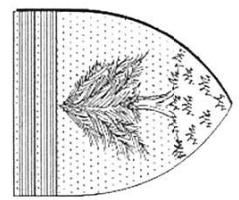

1. Garden Link

Look through the windows to what was once the Drawing Room. Above is where the fire started. On the wall is the architect's vision for the Great

The Messel Family

Leonard 1872-1953
m. Maud Sambourne

Ottlie
1873-1945
m. Ernest Loring

Ruth 1874-1933
m. Eric Parker

Harold 1877-1920
m. Leonora Gibson

Hilda 1878-1941
m. Arthur Gibbes

Muriel
1889-1918

Rudolf
1848-1920

Alfred 1853-1909
m. Elsa Altmann

Eugenie 1864-1908
m. Eugène de la Penha

Linley
1899-1971
m. (1st) Anne Alexander
m. (2nd) Elizabeth Downes

Ottlie
1873-1945
m. Ernest Loring

Ruth 1874-1933
m. Eric Parker

Harold 1877-1920
m. Leonora Gibson

Hilda 1878-1941
m. Arthur Gibbes

Muriel
1889-1918

Rudolph 1904-1957
m. Judith Birdwood

Alfred 1853-1909
m. Elsa Altmann

Eugenie 1864-1908
m. Eugène de la Penha

Elizabeth 1933-
m. Ian Church

Victoria 1938-
m. Timothy Allison

Polly
1949-
m. Jeremy Lewis

Thomas 1951-
m. Penelope Barratt

Antony
Earl of Snowdon 1930-
m. (1st) Princess Margaret
m. (2nd) Lucy Davies

Susan 1927-1986
m. John Vesey
6th Viscount de Vesci

William
7th Earl of Rosse
1936-
m. Alison Cooke Hunle

Martin 1939- 2010
m. Aline MacDonald

Judith 1931-
m. George Hillier

Phoebe 1932-
m. David Hillary

Alistair
1935-
m. (1st) Louise Parker
m. (2nd) Ann Baring

Ronald 1942-2006
m. Gillian Harding

2 children

3 children

1 child

3 children

2 children

1 child

3 children

2 children

3 children

4 children

3 children

1 child

More information is available in the booklet
'The Nyman Story'